

NEURORADIOLOGY POSITION AVAILABLE

The Neuroradiology Division of the Department of Radiology, The Johns Hopkins Medical Institution is seeking an ABR CAQ certified, fellowship trained Attending Neuroradiologist, Expertise in all aspects of Neuroradiology, including CT, MRI, Post-processing, and Head and Neck is desired. The department currently performs more than 36,000 neuroimaging procedures yearly at the main hospital and outpatient imaging centers. State-of-the-art equipment includes six 1.5T and five 3.0T MR units, a 4.7 and 9.4T research animal magnet, three 64 slice and 5 additional multidetector CT units. Interest in clinical and research academic endeavors is required with diffusion tensor and perfusion imaging expertise most desirable. We offer competitive salary, excellent benefits, and even hybrid tracts that have the benefits of both academic and private practice pathways. We have a close-knit group of 9 faculty that share and care and enjoy working with each other. We're happy. Interested, qualified applicants should send inquiries and a current CV to: David M Yousem, M.D., Director of Neuroradiology, Department of Radiology, 600 N. Wolfe Street: Phipps B-112, Baltimore, MD 21287, dyousem1@jh.u.edu, 410-955-2685. The Johns Hopkins University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States.